MISS MARITA FARELL, Czechoslovakian Metropolitan Opera soprano, is the next celebrity to be featured on the summer Artist Series calendar. Miss Farell will present "An Hour Of Song" in the July 20 assembly. Yesterday, Dr. Thomas E. Benner spoke on "My Experiences With the Soviets."

Spaeth Lecture Illustrates Value Of 'Enjoying' Music

"Music is not just an art but a recreation," according to Dr. Sigmund Spaeth in his talk, "Music for Fun," last Wednesday at the 10 a.m. assembly.

Dr. Spaeth, a music critic and tune detective, recommends music for all people, especially as a recreation. He said people have a sense of rhythm which enables them to enjoy music. They learn to pick out the tune and then the harmony. People learn to enjoy music first with their feet, then with their heart, then their head.

The term "classic" scares most people, said Dr. Spaeth, but he prefers to call music that has stood the test of time "permanent" music.

He demonstrated many of the popular songs taken from permanent music by playing several hit

Spaeth played the classic from which the melody was taken, the man told him it was the best arrangement he had heard yet.

Dr. Spaeth said he could teach anyone to play the piano in five minutes. He explained the keyboard and pointed out C, E, and G. By using the same three notes in different positions on the keyboard he developed several chords and a base accompaniment.

He sang the melody of several different songs and played an accompaniment by using the chords derived from three notes. After disclosing his method he said, "Three notes will take you a long way in music."

"Don't worry about your taste as long as you have an honest interest in music. As long as you enjoy it that is all that matters," declared Dr. Spaeth.

He gave this basic definition of music: it is the organization of sound toward beauty. The more you listen to music the easier it will be, according to him, to pick out the five basic qualities: rhythm, melody, harmony, tone color, and form.

Dr. Spaeth, formerly a music critic and now conductor of the weekly quiz during the Metropolitan Opera broadcast, showed his talent and humor in proving his points on music for fun.

33rd Year

Hospital Expansion Announced

Freshman Camp Scheduled Prior To September Term

For the three days prior to the opening of the fall term, incoming freshmen are invited to attend the Freshman Camp to be held at Lake St. Marys Sept. 15-18.

This camp, first in Bowling Green history, is intended to provide general orientation to campus life and the opportunity to make friends.

Students May Pre-Register For Fall Term

Fall students may pre-register from now until the end of the summer term. This was announced last week by Registrar John Bunn.

Those who made out their class schedules last semester will have only to walk into the Registrar's Office, fill out several forms, pay their fees, and they are finished until classes start in September.

Those that did not make out their class schedules or wish to change them will have to see their respective deans.

Incoming freshmen and their parents, will confer with deans as the new students register for next fall.

While the students are taking tests, planning classes and arranging housing, the parents will have the university regulations explained to them by Arch B. Conklin, dean of students.

An average of 50 students a day is expected by Ralph H. Geer, new student counselor.

This program will continue until Aug. 25. Then re-commence Sept. 7 until the 15.

Vets Reminded To Check Status

Veterans are reminded that if they desire to make any change in the present status of their 15 day leave period, such change must be made 30 days before the end of the summer term. This regulation also applies to those veterans who plan to attend the post-summer session, Mr. Ralph H. Geer, veteran's counselor, stated.

Veterans who attended the spring term, 1949, and are now attending the summer session, who expected subsistence checks to cover a 15-day leave period after the spring term are reminded that the actual vacation time between the two terms was only 10 days. Veterans cannot expect a double subsistence payment for leave periods which overlap with a following term, Mr. Geer said.

Arrival of checks for Veterans covering the first part of the summer session (June 13 to July 31) are still to be delayed until Aug. 1.

Lima Surgeon Gets Head Post; Third Floor To Be Used

Announcement was made by Dr. Prout this week of a plan calling for expansion of Johnston Hospital to make use of the top floor and also the addition of a new full time physician. The expansion was necessitated by the increased number of patients which generally approximates 125 persons per day.

Dr. James W. Halfhill, of Lima, will take over the duties of full time physician at the hospital beginning Sept. 1. Dr. Halfhill, a veteran of World War II, has been a prominent physician and surgeon in Lima for many years. He succeeds Dr. Winship H. Brown who will remain as part time assistant physician at the university.

Beginning July 1, Hubert Schwarz will be the business manager of the hospital. He will also be in charge of the business operations of the new pathological and X-ray laboratories.

Plans are being drawn for installation of an elevator in order to utilize the top floor of the hospital. In the past, the top floor has served as a dormitory for women students, who will now be placed in regular women's dorms to make room for needed bed space.

Radio Station Adds Studio

WRSM, Bee Gee's campus radio station, has been granted permission by the administration to use room 103 of the Administration Bldg., adjacent to the studio's present quarters, as an additional studio after 4 p.m., effective in September.

Prof. Sidney Stone, director of radio activities, said that the use of the room in its studio capacity will in no way interfere with its use for classroom purposes.

tunes such as "Tonight We Love," "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows," and "Til the End of Time," and then played the original scores from which they came.

He also told the story about the man who liked one of the popular songs very much. When Dr.

Bee Gee Keeps Growing...

In recent years there has been a large and conspicuous change in Bowling Green State University. The war and its aftermath of educational consciousness has demanded that the University grow up and expand in many ways. This year, in the three commencement ceremonies, 822 students in all will be graduated. Not so very long ago the entire student body did not include this many persons. Over 4,500 enrollees from all over the country sought learning here during 1948-49 and about the same number are expected next semester.

The University has been cognizant of the fact that the post-war boom is not just a temporary influx of veterans. More and more high school graduates are finding college education a vital necessity, and will continue to in the future. Private schools have steadily increased their tuition to such an extent that a great many young men and women find it impossible to attend any but a state school. Bowling Green has improved and enlarged its curriculum, added to its faculty, and in general improved its educational standing to meet the demand.

New dormitories have been built and are now being built to replace and augment the temporary housing that was moved in following the war. New buildings have constantly been going up all over the campus for the use of different departments. The administration continues to be aware of the scholastic needs of its students and proof of the results it has achieved is apparent wherever one looks.

Only in the actual social relationships between students and administration is there a falling away from the modern attitude. The intense resentment of the students because they are not allowed to have any say in how they are to be governed is something to be considered. Any university that takes the "if you don't like it, get out" attitude is making a big mistake.

For all that has been done for them educationally, if students feel they have been victims of unfair rules, they will harbor a grudge that is dangerous. Bowling Green is a young school and as yet has no strong alumni group. In the future one will be built up which should add much to the welfare of Bowling Green—if the bitter taste does not remain in the mouths of too many ex-students.

Assemblies A Success...

The time has come to congratulate Mr. Wilbur Abell and the Artist Series Committee on the fine work they have done in lining up the excellent program of summer entertainment that is being offered in our assemblies.

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, who appeared as speaker in the first program, lent an informal touch that was very popular with the students. His talk on how to enjoy music had an appeal to everyone—even those who previously wanted nothing to do with music.

Yesterday's guest artist, Dr. Thomas E. Benner, spoke on a subject of vital interest to all of us in these cloudy times. There are few people so well qualified to discuss the Russians as Dr. Benner. The intelligence and thought behind his words made the assembly a highlight of the summer months.

Miss Marita Farrell, radio and Metropolitan Opera singer, will be featured on the July 20 program. The beautiful soprano will present arias from "Carmen," "Faust," "Hansel and Gretel," and many other top operas.

LaFollett is a name that has stood out in United States politics for as long as most of us can remember. In the last assembly of the year the committee presents the Hon. Philip F. LaFollett. Subject of the ex-governor of Wisconsin's speech will be, "A Fundamental Sound American Policy." It should prove interesting to see what the present LaFollett attitude is on this subject.

It has taken much effort to line up such an outstanding array of personalities for our enjoyment and it is with sincere appreciation that we thank the committee on behalf of the student body.

TREVLAC, PHI DELTA fraternity's mascot, is shown as he looked when given to the fraternity less than two years ago (in insert), and as he is today—160 pounds of dog.

Trevlac Relates His Story To Reporters

By Mary Lyons

"You people don't give us dogs much credit, do you? I'm a smart dog, so why not let me write my own autobiography?"

This was the reply I received from Trevlac when I asked him for permission to write his biography. I was so astounded at his words that I collapsed into a nearby chair and said, "Okay, 'Trev,' every dog has his day and this one is yours! Go ahead and shoot—I'm at your service."

The great dane settled back on his haunches, cleared his throat and began...

"Well, I was born two years ago on the Fourth of July. I was a healthy pup and weighed about 10 pounds. People laughed when they saw me and said I was all ears and feet!"

"I spent my puppyhood days in Michigan under the expert guidance of Mrs. Flanders. (Her son 'Flip' goes to school here, you know.) Like all good children I took my cod-liver oil and vitamins along with my milk and eggs. The result of these rations soon began to show for I grew and grew."

"When I was a pretty good-sized pup, 'Flip' brought me down here to go to school and be a mascot for the Phi Delta fraternity. The fellows treat me swell and I like it here very much. I'm a sophomore now, you know!"

"Just to show you how much can happen in two years—I now tip the scales at 160 pounds and am 6 feet tall when standing on my hind legs. My chest measures 38 inches and my reach is 36 inches. See what leading a dog's life can do?"

"My daily menu at the present consists of two cans of dog food, four cups of Kaseo, two quarts of milk, meat scraps, and bones. Quite a spread, huh?"

"To amuse myself I go golfing with the boys quite often. Swimming, track, and football are also fun and I get a big kick out of watching the interfraternity softball games."

"I come from the Von Birkenhof line of great danes. My grandfather was Herman of Zorn. He came over here from Germany, and he must have been a pretty big wheel because mother told me that he was worth $3000!"

"As for friends and companions I am never at a loss. In addition to the students I chum around with, there is 'Toffer' from the Question: What's your favorite joke?

Edmond Morris, senior from Bergen, N. J.: "The one about the little boy whose teacher told him and the class that coal came from old trees, old leaves and old grass that had solidified underground."

"She then asked the class if someone could tell her what made coal burn so well."

The little boy raised his hand and said, "I know, teacher, because there's no fuel like an old fuel."

Dr. Clare Martin, Chemistry Dept.: "A girl got a job with a midwestern weather station and while there the chief meteorologist died. Although she had little experience, she was given the job."

Dr. Clare Martin "One thing saved her—an uncle with a wooden leg promised to call her every day and tell what the weather would be like according to his leg."

"This method was successful but finally she stopped using her uncle's report and began predicting wrong."

"When her uncle called and asked her why she didn't follow his words, she replied, 'Oh, I couldn't keep using your leg. It's not scientific!'"

Carolyn Hurlbut, junior from Elyria: "I like the one about the traveling salesman who went up to a farm house and knocked on the door."

"A very good looking girl answered the door and invited him in."

"Then he asked, 'Would you like to buy some tooth paste?'"

"And the girl replied, 'No, my teeth stay in my gums without it!'"

Harry Shearer, junior: "A guy went into the dentist's office and the dentist asked, 'Do you want gas?'"

"'Yes,' the fellow replied, 'and you might as well change the oil while you're at it.'"

Mitzi Peterson, junior from Canton: "I like the one about the little boy who was eating with his grandfather and kept trying to speak."

"Every time he said, 'Grandfather,' the old man would tell him that little boys should not speak while they are eating."

"Finally, at the end of the meal the old man asked, 'Now what is it that you wanted to say?'"

"'It's too late now,' the boy replied, 'you've eaten the worm already.'"

'Tina' Opens Second Week At BG's Summer Playhouse

Special to the News

HURON, O.—Bee Gee's new summer theatre opened its second play, "Tina," last night. Jean MacGlathery, who starred in both BG's and Huron's production of "John Loves Mary" played the title role.

"Tina" is a new comedy by Academy Award winner Robert Finch. Mr. Finch, who is with the Playhouse, directed his own show. Ernest Capron appeared in the male lead as Don, Tina's husband.

BG Graduates Find No Work; Buy Newspaper

"If we can't work on a newspaper we might as well buy one ourselves," decided Jack James and Dean McMurray last week. Accordingly, the pair, who were graduated from Bee Gee with degrees in Journalism last month, laid a reported $200 on the line and became the new co-publishers of the Bettsville Community Weekly at Bettsville, O.

By purchasing the Bettsville paper, James and McMurray also became their own reporters, managers, and editors. The paper serves approximately 350 subscribers in and around Bettsville and six other nearby communities.

After graduating, the pair began touring the state in search of positions with larger newspapers. Finding no openings available, they returned to the scene of happier days ("we used to eat once in a while anyway," Jack stated pointing to Dean, a mere shadow of his regular eating undergraduate self) and found their big opportunity waiting practically on the back step of their former abode, the Sigma Nu House on Fraternity Row.

Lutheran Group Sponsors Picnic

A summer get-together of the Lutheran Student Association will be in the form of a picnic to be held next Sunday, July 10, at 3 p.m. at Otsego Park.

Transportation will be furnished for those who have no means of getting to the park. Those wanting rides are to meet at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, South Enterprise, at 3 p.m.

In Music Field Times Are Also Very Difficult

By John Durniak

Tin Pan Alley was ready to change its name once and for all to Gold Pot Avenue. The post-war era was full of promise, wax, musicians, cars, home-again-hearts, and money.

This was the setting when Roch Moneynotenough wrapped his songs into a high school diploma and boarded a subway for the office of the note and word-worthy Irving Berlin.

The subway rumbled and Roch jotted down a lyric to its rhythm—just for practice:

The strap hangers swing and away
To the rhythm of the old subway,
But lovers in a seat
Move to every heart beat.

Imagination? Originality? These words were too small to express this boy's talent. Wait until Irving got an earful of his songs. Poor Irving. How would he take it? But then, playing second fiddle to Roch Moneynotenough wasn't the lowest occupation.

Roch was up on Broadway before the subway doors had fully opened. Giant skyscrapers faced him and taxi cabs zipped and zoomed crazily. Was this the inspiration for Roch's old lyric?

Tin Pan Alley,
O how I'd like to live
In Tin Pan Alley,
Where music fills the air
And love's the only care.

He entered Mr. Berlin's ultra modern office and an over-lipsticked secretary asked what his business was.

"I'd like to see Mr. Berlin," gargled Roch.

"Sorry," said the secretary, "but he's not in and won't be back for six months."

"Oh! Well, do you have any jobs here," asked Roch and thought about getting the lay of the music land while the boss was away.

"Try the stock room."

Roch was directed through several doors and passages. At the end of the last corridor a man said "no" and an elevator door accepted him. Outside the building, Roch knelt down and scribbled across the sidewalk:

Tin Pan Alley
Doesn't live here anymore
It's gone to heaven
And there's no key to the door.

Sanitary DRY CLEANERS

Following The Ball

By Gene Dinkel

Sweltering heat plus a three-day holiday weekend has slowed up the local sports pace. Last week's tropical influence even caused a noticeable lack of stick swingers on the golf course, especially during the afternoons. The cool waters of the quarry seem to be the favorite refuge from the heat.

Close scores featured most of the softball games last Wednesday. Three of the ball games were taken by a single run, but the scores were still generally high. Ed Lord, playing shortstop for Sigma Nu House, has been specializing in circuit clouts. In the first two league games, Ed appeared at bat seven times, getting five homers in those seven trips. That would call for about five cases—of "Krunchies."

Crime doesn't pay—and all the proof isn't in the sociology books. According to a recent Associated Press story, the Sing Sing Prison ball team lost their first game of the year the other day. Who defeated them? You guessed it, a nearby Police Athletic League team. However, it wasn't the first time that the losing players had "lost" to the law. One of the prisoners slammed a home run over the "wall" and offered to retrieve it, but his good gesture was refused by the "umpires."

Strange things happen on the softball diamond. The other evening John Pennisi, playing manager of the Automatic Fountains of the town Fastball League, found himself and Joe D'Entremont both with their feet firmly planted on the same third base. Collecting all his managerial integrity, John shouted, "get outa here, do something, go somewhere — hide!" With these words of encouragement the other runner took off for second. John, in the meanwhile, raced home to score. The Fountains were the eventual victors.

Another victory for Lou Cross up in the Toledo Amateur Federation. He was backed up in his victory by another Bee Gee boy, Glenn Honner, who connected for a home run. The boy's team, Schmidt Chevrolets, are in a first place tie in their league.

Monday Games

Four intramural league softball games are scheduled for next Monday evening, July 11. The Skashers will battle Sigma Chi; Hose Noses will square off against the Chowhounds; Sigma Nu House and the Ball and Chains will come face to face with each other, and ATO House and Pacemakers will combine to make up the other contest. As usual the starting time will be at 6:15 p.m.

ATO House Takes Lead, Skashers Stop Sigma Nu

ATO House was in firm possession of first place in the intramural softball league, after Tuesday night's games.

Undefeated ATO edged by the Chowhounds by a score of 12-11. The victors came from behind in the last inning to win their third straight.

Dick Kranz and "Porky" McMillan were the winning batteries, with Kranz, Bob Parks and Harry Brockman getting home runs for ATO. Losing pitcher was Bob Kruse, Dan Kolarik catching. Despite their loss, Fuller of the Chowhounds had a perfect night at bat with four hits in four attempts.

Sigma Nu House was jarred out of its first place tie by an inspired Skasher club. The winners pounded the previously undefeated Sigma Nu team 17-5. Dick Sanford pitched close ball to bring home the Skasher's first win, Bill Hicks caught. Seabreal collected four hits in five tries for the victors. Al Delau and Don Stork were the batteries for the losers. All five of Sigma Nu House's runs were driven in by Ed Lord who slammed a triple and a homer in four trips to the plate, while Dick Budd got three for four and Delau three for three.

John Mosnot pitched the first shutout in league play as the Ball and Chains defeated the Hose Noses 12-0. Joe McCleary and Soring were the batteries for the Noses. Hummer and Peterson had perfect nights for the winners, getting four for four and three for three respectively. McCleary got three hits in three trips to the plate for the losers.

The Pacemakers downed the Sigma Chi team 18-3. Ray Roob and Jerry Murphy were the winning batteries, Ken Tigges hurled and Gene Fenn and Tom Miller caught for the losers. Top hitter for the victors was Sal Guidice, who slammed two triples, a double and a single in four attempts, while Wayne Schrider, Ray Roob, and Ted Korn banged homers. Charlie Share had a perfect evening for Sigma Chi getting four for four.

By Bob Sullivan

Sigma Nu House and ATO House both copped their second straight wins in the summer softball league schedule. Once again the scores were generally high, but with close scores highlighting most of the contests.

The previously undefeated Pacemakers tell to the Sigma Nu House team by a score of 6-5. Shortstop Ed Lord connected for two home runs, while right fielder Milan Zivic collected a double and two singles for his three trips to the plate. For the Pacemakers, third baseman Heaston had a fine night with a home run, a double and a single for three times at bat, and his team-mate Seis got three singles for three appearances at the plate. Al Delau and Bill Scruta were the winning batteries for Sigma Nu; Ray Roob and Wayne Scheider worked for the Pacemakers.

ATO House remained undefeated by topping the Skashers by the big score of 16-15. Bob Barry was the winning pitcher, while MacMillan did the catching. Sanford hurled for the Skashers and Bill Hicks took care of the receiving.

The Ball and Chains offered the other close contest of the evening as they beat the Chowhounds 11-10. The Chains' battery, Mosnot and Jim Homze, were backed up by Rogge, left fielder, who collected three singles and a triple in four times at bat, and second baseman Hecktus with two singles and a double for three trips. Greenwalt of the Chowhounds had a perfect night with a home run and two singles in his three appearances. Bob Kruse and Merle Shade took care of the battery duties for the Chowhounds.

Fourth game of last Wednesday's schedule saw the Hose Noses swamp Sigma Chi 14-7. McCleary and Soring were in the pitcher-catcher slots for the winners, Ken Tigges and Miller working for Sigma Chi. Second baseman Porter led the way for the Noses with a pair of triples, while Hughes and Karaffa each collected two hits for the Sigma Chi organization.
